MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

Community foundations are some of the most dynamic and innovative public charities. We are dedicated to doing good by harnessing the transformative power of philanthropy. We occupy a unique space in the communities we serve and play important roles, such as: building capacity by nurturing the nonprofit sector, expanding philanthropic capital by establishing and growing funds, aligning social action by connecting stakeholders around issues, and deploying philanthropic capital through grantmaking. In 2019, CFOSJ leaned into all these roles in unprecedented ways for our organization.

CFOSJ worked with regional and local leaders to convene Inland California Rising – an all-day conference meant to strengthen and increase investment in the inland region. Held at University of the Pacific, Inland California Rising brought together foundations, business leaders, and elected officials from throughout the Central Valley and Inland California, to bring awareness of the disparities in educational and health outcomes between the coastal and inland regions, and the lack of public and private funding flowing into the Central Valley. Efforts like these have galvanized support to boost investment in California’s heartland and have created momentum to sustain other efforts to make big, bold change in our region.

On a similar level, CFOSJ deepened its commitment to regional change by co-founding the Central Valley Legislative Roundtable with three other community foundations from the Central Valley: Stanislaus, Fresno, and Kern.

Once a quarter, each community foundation brings together state and federal representatives to discuss some of the region’s most pressing issues such as: education, health, and the economy. These discussions help inform policymakers about the innovative work being done in our respective areas and how we can work together to create change in our communities.

CFOSJ supports it’s community work through the administration of philanthropic assets of our donors. Even though 2019 saw a rollercoaster year in the stock market, net assets at the foundation continued to grow. In addition, our growth was propelled by the generosity from individuals, agencies, and other foundation fundholders. In total, CFOSJ accepted $4 million in contributions on behalf of new and existing fundholders, ending the year with $17.5 million in net assets under management. Grant-making also steadily increased to $1.8 million this year, compared to $1.2 million in 2018.

The work and accomplishments of CFOSJ would not be possible without the generous support of our donors and fundholders. Together, we form a community of philanthropists, united in the belief that we can make a difference in the lives of others and committed to causes larger than ourselves. CFOSJ is appreciative of its many contributors—individuals, families, businesses, institutions, and nonprofit organizations. It is in great measure that because of them, we can continue to uplift our county and the Central Valley to reach new heights.

The Leadership Stockton Alumni Association (LSAA) is excited to continue our partnership with the Community Foundation. 2019 marked the inaugural year in which LSAA established the LSAA Community Improvement Fund to support important local charitable causes. Through the assistance of the Community Foundation, we were able to make mini grants to several worthwhile organizations supporting youth recreational opportunities.

“Leadership Stockton is a program designed to inspire a new generation of men and women ready to assume leadership roles in our community. It challenges and prepares individuals from diverse backgrounds to become influential in our region’s future. LSAA continues that momentum by offering an Annual Breakfast each year which highlights the Leadership Stockton session which include the understanding of our region’s history, diversity, justice system, politics, government, economy, education, human services, and health care. The funds generated from the LSAA Breakfast are returned to our community is the form of a grant. Each year the grant focus varies but follows the LS Sessions topics”

– Shauna Buzunis-Jacob

The Ripon Community Emergency Fund was established at the Community Foundation of San Joaquin, to support the charitable work of non-profits in Ripon, and its residents who need financial emergency assistance.

“2019 was a great year for the Ripon Community Fund. We had a successful golf tournament in partnership with Camp Taylor- a non-profit organization that provides medically supervised recreational opportunities for children with heart disease and their families. Former NFL players Eric Dickerson and Roy Green were invited to attend the tournament by World Foods owner Marty Van Duyn, to help raise funds and show their support. This tournament helped raise awareness for the Ripon Community Fund and Camp Taylor and generated needed funds to help Camp Taylor complete several capital projects like its dining facility where meals are enjoyed by the children and their families during their stay. 95% of our net tournament profits went towards Camp Taylor and we hope our partnership will only continue to grow and generate further awareness and donations for Ripon Community Fund and Camp Taylor.”

JumpStart Program:

The Community Foundation of San Joaquin partnered with Sunlight Giving and CB Merchant Services to provide six local nonprofit organizations a fund development training run by Network for Good. The JumpStart program is a 12-month program that provides nonprofits with the integrated tools, plan, coaching, and technology required to build the fundraising capacity to sustain their programs.

“The coaching has been invaluable to our efforts in fundraising. We have really been able to engage our donors more effectively with the tools - sending out email and video messages, using the templates, and learning strategies to help build campaigns has been so helpful in increasing our visibility and funding.

I would recommend this software and donor management system. It is so much easier for us to navigate than just having our files in an excel spreadsheet. This really helps you see areas of opportunity. The personal coaching has really helped us sharpen our donor-centered skills, leading to new donors, and more recurring donations.”

Executive Director on building fundraising capacity

“...The coaching in particular was very helpful. It made us see things differently and express ourselves more effectively to our donors. By October 8, 2020 we will have raised well over $100,000 more over the same period the year before starting Jumpstart!”

The Community Philanthropy Summit has served as a countywide forum for nonprofit organizations, financial planners, accountants, and philanthropic leaders. Hosted by the Community Foundation of San Joaquin and the Lodi Community Foundation, the Summit offers an informative day of learning, collaboration, and relationship building.

Since its inception in 2011, the Summit has attracted over 1,700 non-profit professionals and sector leaders. An average of over 50 non-profit organizations attend in any given year.

This year, attendees were also treated to an inspirational message from Chris Stricklin, retired Thunderbird pilot, whose miraculous survival from a crashing plane during an air show moved our audience. Chris imparted a poignant, parting message: suffering, pain, and loss sharpen our awareness of what is essential. They lift us above the everyday and give us a wider perspective of our lives. They inspire us to make the most of each day.

AFP Awards

The Association for Fundraising Professionals (AFP) is an association of professionals throughout the world, advancing philanthropy by enabling people to practice ethical and effective fundraising.

The AFP California Capital Chapter, San Joaquin Extension is proud to participate in National Philanthropy Day Awards to recognize those engaged in philanthropy. It is a celebration of giving, volunteering and charitable engagement that highlights the accomplishments, large and small, that philanthropy and all those involved in the philanthropic process makes to our society and our world. National Philanthropy Day® is a special day set aside on the fifteenth of November. The purpose of this day is to recognize the great contributions of philanthropy and those people active in the philanthropic community to the enrichment of our world.

NPD was originally conceived of and organized by Douglas Freeman in the 1980s, and the first official events held in 1986 after President Reagan signed the official NPD proclamation. The day provides an opportunity to reflect on the meaning of giving and all that it has made possible. NPD celebrates the endless daily contributions individuals and organizations across the world make to countless causes and missions.

INLAND CALIFORNIA RISING

On September 19, 2019, over 200 participants—leaders from the philanthropic, business, non-profit, and public sectors—convened in Stockton, at University of the Pacific for Inland California Rising—an all-day conference focused on strengthening inland California. Co-hosted by CFOSJ in partnership with local and regional leaders, Inland California Rising is a movement based on the premise that the state’s future relies on strengthening and increasing investment in the region. California is an engine of growth and innovation but remains beset by regional inequities and challenges. Rectifying inequities is essential to expanding opportunity for all Californians, addressing racial disparities, and strengthening the economy of the state.

The Central Valley and Inland California are fast becoming important areas of investment in our state, with rapid population and economic growth. Stretching from Stockton to the Inland Empire, the region is home to 11 million residents, and with a gross domestic product of $436 billion (2015), its economy equals the 15th largest state in the U.S. There is vast diversity across the region with unique challenges as well as opportunities. The Central Valley and the Inland Empire also share many common needs and goals – particularly when it comes to driving equitable and sustainable growth and recovery, and increasing regional investment.
Pillar Society Members

The Community Foundation of San Joaquin exists to support and strengthen our community’s charitably-minded people and the causes that matter most. CFOSJ provides leadership, promotes a culture of giving, and cultivates resources that address the needs of our community. Just as a pillar serves to strengthen a structure, members of our Pillar Society will be the mainstay of our organization for years to come.
